

Press release

For immediate release

Control Risks to Exhibit at Legalweek 2026, Showcasing Discovery+ Data Insights Capabilities

NEW YORK, March 2, 2026 — Control Risks, a global leader in investigations, litigation support, compliance, cyber incident response, eDiscovery and digital forensics services, today announced it will exhibit for the first time at Legalweek this March 9 – 12, 2026, in New York, appearing in the exhibit hall at booth 738.

Control Risks' Discovery + Data Insights practice supports law firms and corporate legal departments in matters involving complex data, cross border investigations, and high stakes disputes. At Legalweek, the firm will highlight its work at the intersection of disputes, investigations, compliance, eDiscovery, digital forensics, cyber incident response and data analytics, with a focus on:

- Modern, defensible collection strategies for Microsoft 365, Google Workspace, Slack and other cloud collaboration platforms, and mobile device data, including IM, text, chat and third-party ephemeral and encrypted communications
- Expert-led eDiscovery and early case intelligence that help legal teams move faster and make better informed decisions
- Global Managed eDiscovery Services that provide multinational corporations with far greater reach, flexibility and litigation and investigative support capabilities than traditional eDiscovery providers

- Practical applications of analytics and AI in investigations and compliance matters, guided by seasoned investigative and subject matter experts

“Legalweek brings together many of the clients and partners we work with throughout the year,” said Michele Wiener, Partner and Global Head of Discovery + Data Insights at Control Risks. “Exhibiting at the conference allows us to deepen those conversations and share how we are helping legal teams manage risk, complexity, and rapid change in their data landscapes.”

Control Risks consultants will be available at booth 738 throughout the conference to discuss recent case work, emerging trends in investigations and discovery, and practical approaches to using technology in a defensible and strategically impactful way.

About Control Risks

Control Risks is a global strategic intelligence firm that helps create secure, compliant, and resilient organizations. Control Risks leverages technology and our legal industry expertise to help companies and their outside counsel manage and coordinate compliance, litigation, and corporate risks, often in multinational and highly complex regulatory and investigatory matters. Control Risks’ Discovery + Data Insights practice provides a comprehensive suite of innovative and cost-effective solutions to a wide range of clients and counsel on forensic, eDiscovery, data analytics, litigation, and investigative assignments. For more information, visit www.controlrisks.com

Media Contact:

Vicki LaBrosse

Global Director of Public Relations

vlabrosse@edgemarketinginc.com

P: 651.528.9445